Biography

Jody Neer, MD, is a board certified neurologist who treats patients with disorders of the nervous system. Dr. Neer has extensive experience in caring for patients with movement disorders and cognitive conditions that affect the brain, spinal cord and nerves. In 2021, he was inducted into the Gold Humanism Honor Society (GHHS) at Indiana University School of Medicine. GHHS members serve as role models, mentors and leaders in health care. Away from his practice, Dr. Neer enjoys traveling and spending time with his wife and four children.

Philosophy of Care

Dr. Neer knows that a diagnosis of a neurological disorder can be overwhelming and life changing. He takes a warm and compassionate approach to help patients and their families understand and cope with their condition. His disease management counseling also helps patients learn how to lead productive and healthy daily lives.
