About Me

Kirby Wilcoxson is a certified nurse practitioner at Goshen Physicians Orthopedics & Sports Medicine. She collaborates with the orthopedic surgeons in treating orthopedic and sports-related injuries ranging from arthritis to fracture care. She participates in the care of patients both surgically and non-surgically. Although orthopedics is her specialty, she is a certified family nurse practitioner and is qualified to treat illnesses along the spectrum of primary care from infancy to the advanced-aging population.

Philosophy of Care

Kirby loves being a nurse practitioner because she is committed to the holistic care of the patient. In her providing care for different ages, she is aware that there are a variety of factors that play into one's health and is intentional about maintaining the holistic model throughout the course of care. One of her main goals is to help people re-establish their lives and recover so they can return to the activities they love.
