About Me

Laura Wheeler, DNP, FNP-BC, works in collaboration with other members of the healthcare team to provide expert urgent care services and family health care with a focus on disease prevention and wellness. As an Associate Professor in the Goshen College Family Nurse Practitioner program, Laura teaches courses in advanced pathophysiology, pharmacology and research, as well as women's and adult health. Her goal in practice is to develop a partnership with her patients with the common goal of achieving and maintaining wellness.

Philosophy of Care

Laura believes a patient's health and well-being are a result of providing patients with primary prevention counseling and appropriate medical treatment combined with compassion. The practice of evidence-based medicine learned through advanced education allows Laura to help patients manage healthy lifestyle changes and disease. Laura has dedicated her practice to providing education and coaching to both patients and other providers with the attainment of population health as her goal.
